Description

The project will create an opportunity of lower technical education and computer skills for socially disadvantaged Kenyan citizens and creates a missing educational infrastructure in undeveloped areas - slums in Eldoret. Newly created educational center in the slum Langas in Eldoret will provide free technical education (certified education and training) for 216 students in the field of tailor and hairdresser and computer skills courses. The project will provide better access to technical education in Kenya for the critical group of girls and single mothers who have no possibility to apply for a work without professional qualification.
